Profile

In more than 20 years of consultancy, Francesca has worked with different types of organisations, from large multinationals operating in various sectors and well-known Italian brands, to the most dynamic SMEs, developing a solid experience in designing and implementing talent management processes, leadership development projects, team building workshops and individual coaching programmes.

He is one of the founding partners of Awair and head of the Paris office.

Interests

Her main interests converge on the topics of facilitation, participative leadership, sustainability, well-being in organisational contexts and women's leadership.

Francesca likes to build open relationships, based on trust and transparency, to help people understand what is really important to them and consciously explore their way of looking at reality.

In her coaching and training courses, Francesca focuses on the person in his / her entirety, with an approach that is not limited to the professional side: in fact, she is convinced that a structural transformation of the person necessarily passes through a process that leads to channelling mental, emotional and physical energy in the most constructive and functional way.
